

"What Youth Soccer Has Meant To Me"

Youth soccer has meant a lot to me. It has taught me more than just the skills to the game. It has given me the chance to travel to different places and explore new ways of playing soccer. It has given me the chance to meet new friends and through youth soccer I have met my best friend. Youth soccer also kept me out of trouble. I am not a problem child but it kept me occupied and focused on more important things than hanging out at the movies and getting into trouble. It also taught me how to work with other people. I have learned in soccer that you need to work as a team or you are not going to get anywhere on the field. This is a good lesson to learn early, because when I am older and need to work as a team, I will know how to work with other people. I am a team captain and it has taught me responsibility. Youth soccer has given me more self-esteem and confidence in myself. My coaches over the years have taught me how to work hard in order to achieve my goals in life. Without youth soccer, I feel that I would have missed out on a lot of really great things and new lessons that I have learned. It has given me the will power to try to make myself better and work harder to achieve my goal to play college soccer. Now that I have worked hard it has now paid off because I am going to college to play soccer.
